

Frank Bell Horse Whisperer

Unhandled PMU Filly

Dear Frank,

I am adopting a 3 month old filly who has barely been handled (a premarin foal). She arrives on 9/5/03. I currently have an 8 year old mare. One paddock, one barn with a large open interior and a pasture. She has never been on halter yet. How do I approach this project. I am trying to save her from the slaughterhouse. She is a registered quarter horse and beautiful, but I want to start out right. I am a novice and have owned my mare for one year and things have been great with her. They will be kept together. Any advice would be soooo appreciated.

Diana

Diana:

Order my 'Working with Young Horses' video immediately as well as my foundation piece 'Discover the Horse You Never Knew.' The first will show you how to deal with young, unhandled horses. It's really an art when done right and there are some very important points that you'd likely miss if you weren't clued in.

The second video will give you a straightforward system that will make you both feel good, gain the horse's respect, and you'll have a plan that will lead you right into the saddle when the time is right. Read about it on my site at Western Horseman articles. I admire your desire to save her. Now the real work begins and it's best to start off on the right foot.

Safety First!